SHOULD NOT BE HAMPERED
CARRYING ON WORK

(By United Press)

St. Paul, Jan. 20.—Final action by the highway committee on the bill providing for administration of the Babcock good roads amendment is expected shortly. The committee voted late yesterday in favor of a one man administration of the highway department. Members of the committee openly declared C. M. The vote was 23 to 6.

A fourth tonnage tax law is before the house—this one providing for a tax not only on iron ore mined but places a tax on all other mineral taken in the state for commercial purposes. The tax would cover sand, stone, cement stone, granite, slate, peat and marble. It was introduced by Representative Harry Trowbridge of Austin. It calls for an eight percent tax on the value of all mineral taken from the ground in lieu of all other taxes.

RHINOW CALLED TO WINONA AFTER RIOT

Winona, Minn., Jan. 20.—Efforts will be made by Adjutant General W. F. Rhinow to settle the strike at the Interstate Packing company's plant, where three persons were slightly injured in rioting, following the walk-out of about 100 employees a week ago.

General Rhinow came here in response to the urgent request of Sheriff George Huck, who took charge of the situation after a crowd of men, women and children are alleged to have stoned a group of company employees who did not go on strike.

The strike, according to the labor leaders, resulted from a reduction of 10 cents an hour in the wages of the men. From 15 to 20 employees, including the foreman of the plant and office workers, did not join the strike.

These employees were on their way home from the plant in automobiles when, it is charged, they were set upon by a crowd that included a number of women and children, and after a barrage of bricks and other missiles, the casualties were three persons slightly injured.

St. Paul, Jan. 20.—State troops are not needed to handle the strike situation at the Interstate Packing company plant at Winona, Adj.-Gen. Rhinow reported to Governor J. A. O. Preus today on his return from the strike scene. Riots which started there Tuesday night have entirely subsided and only minor disturbances are occurring. He believed the sheriff there could handle the situation.

KEEP YOUR EYE ON THE TREASURY

HAROLD JACOBS

(Copyright 1921 by the United Press)
New York, Jan. 20.—"Make everybody a watchdog of the treasury," as a step toward solution of the taxation problem is suggested by Chas. S. Fairchild, secretary of the treasury in President Cleveland's first administration.

"In my opinion the greatest evil in this country is the public indifference toward governmental expenditures," he said today.

"One way to overcome this indifference is to spread taxes out in such a way that everyone is affected directly—even if it is only to the extent of a few cents a year. That plan I believe would make everyone personally interested in what the government did with his money and would be a great influence toward government economy."

AIR SUPREMACY INSTEAD OF SEA

BY RALPH H. TURNER.

(United Press Staff Correspondent.)

Washington, Jan. 20.—Great Britain is ready to forgo further construction of battleships and enter an agreement for disarmament because she recognizes that future supremacy in warfare lies in control of the air, Brig. General Wm. Mitchell, assistant chief of the United States air service said to the United Press today.

With this idea a part of her military policy Britain today is directing her energy along the line of air craft development, Mitchell said.

A view somewhat similar was expressed by Captain Thomas K. Cravan, head of the naval air service, who declared that Britain has decided it is the wisest policy to promote air craft methods for warfare rather than spend money in building new ships.

Her crafts and bomb devices, torpedoes and chemical products were mentioned by Cravan as among the phases of warfare now receiving Britain's most earnest attention.

INDUCE EPIDEMIC NAT'L BANKRUPTCY

LLOYD ALLEN.

(United Press Staff Correspondent.)
London, Jan. 20.—America would induce an epidemic of national bankruptcy if she demanded immediate payment of her war loans to Great Britain, according to a high official of the British exchequer today.

Outlining Great Britain's position on the loans he stated authoritatively that while the chances are small no one was optimistic enough to believe Britain could pay except over a long period of time, he suggested a definite twenty year loan. This conversion which at the time of the loan was in the minds of both parties, now is the subject of discussion and negotiations, he said.

Great Britain believes there are many arguments for cancellation of the debt but argument for that solution was abandoned when it became clear that there was great opposition to it in the United States.

The British debt to the United States is $4,277,000,000. On this amount the country has paid interest of $233,357,185 leaving $314,582,285 interest unpaid.

Great Britain is willing to pay and expects to pay the entire principal and interest, the financial expert declared.

Sheep Driven to Mountains.

Wild sheep live in small flocks in rocky, mountainous parts where food is sparse. Had they been possessed of such means of defense as the heels and the speed of the horse, or the horns and the strength of the bison they would probably have congregated on the plains where food was plentiful. As it was, their only protection from their natural enemies, the wolves, lay in their agility in the most inaccessible spots. The length of time sheep have been domesticated is as nothing compared with the preceding ages when their home was in the mountains, consequently coming under the domination of man has utterly reversed their conditions of life. So the growth of the hoof is out of all proportion to the wear on our soft pastures, and footrot supervenes. Similarly the thick coating of wool which was absolutely necessary at the altitudes the wild sheep inhabited, has, as far as the sheep itself is concerned, become a nuisance, and rendered it a prey to ticks and maggots.

The First Stenographer.

Isaac Pittman, contrary to common belief, was not the first stenographer. The first stenographer, so far as can be determined by the records unearthed up to the present, was Marcus Tullius Tiro, the scholarly secretary to Marcus Tullius Cicero. Tiro took down a speech delivered by Cato in the year 63 B. C.

“MADAME X”

Film Version of Alexander Bisson's Famous Play Proves One of the Most Powerful on Screen

A mother's love for her son, who has believed her dead for twenty years, lifting her out of her character of a woman of the streets, causing her to commit a murder to save him from possible disgrace and making her willing to be convicted at her trial rather than tell the story that might save her, is the theme around which Pauline Frederick's new play, “Madame X”, which comes to the New Park theatre for two days, commencing Friday is written.

The picture is the film version of Alexandre Bisson's famous French play, one of the strongest and greatest dramas ever seen on the American stage.

AMUSEMENTS

“AWAY GOES PRUDENCE”

New Park Theatre Presents Billie Burke in Screen Hit and Vaudeville Tonight

Vaudeville and a splendid screen play with Billie Burke the charming heroine make up an ideal entertainment at the New Park theatre and the program was enjoyed by many on Wednesday evening. It will be repeated this evening.

Flying in an airplane when the temperature was 10 degrees below zero was Billie Burke's experience while working on “Away Goes Prudence”. Miss Burke has the role of Prudence Thorne, a daring society girl whose pastime is flying, the story having been written especially for her by Josephine Lovett.

Since the script called for flying scenes without snow and the picture was made during the coldest weather in February John S. Robertson, the director, obtained the permission of the Curtiss Company to make the scenes on their field in Atlantic City, which was free from snow. No sooner had the company arrived on the field than the temperature took a decided drop and snow was threatened. Miss Burke displayed her usual “spunk” and told the director they would take the scenes at any cost. The company suffered greatly from the cold and wind, but the results were so gratifying that Miss Burke said they were worth all the inconvenience the elements had caused.

Other excitement in the picture is caused by kidnapping of the heroine and the fact that she is held by a band of crooks and made to break into houses along with them. Miss Burke wears a boy's suit in these scenes, but also finds opportunities to display several attractive gowns, for which she is famous. Percy Marmont is the leading man.

“Should a Woman Tell” Grips the Heart at the New Lyceum, Last Time Tonight

Not often are we given over to superlatives concerning the dramatic merits of a photoplay, and still less often to the artistic, but the picture shown last evening at the Lyceum theatre, “Should a Woman Tell?” we must confess is one of the most gripping, appealing and generally emotion-inspiring productions that have come under the notice of the reviewers in some time. It will be shown for the last time tonight.

NEW COURT HOUSE PRIDE OF COUNTY

Architect Wm. T. Harris Always Finds Pleasure to Show Citizens the Structure

WAS PLANNED IN MODERN WAY

Builders Have Been Handicapped at Times Waiting for Material, Marble Shipment Expected

William T. Harris of St. Paul, the architect of the new county building, escorted the reporter for the Dispatch through the building on Tuesday afternoon.

When the sightseer expressed his appreciation of the courteous way in which he was treated and the painstaking manner in which the different parts of the building were described to him, Mr. Harris stated that he had extended an invitation to the people of Crow Wing county to look over their new building and that very few had accepted the invitation. The architect made it very clear to the correspondent that he finds pleasure in taking people through the building and is gratified when he knows that the people are interested in the splendid building his firm designed and have partially completed.

When one starts at the basement and passes through the building up to the roof, one is impressed with the way in which the various offices, and attendants have been provided, and one is more impressed by the fact that the people of the county who are to transact their business within the building have not been overlooked.

On the first floor there is a large room which is to be comfortably furnished in which the farmers may meet each other as individuals or hold meetings together. This room will contain glass cases in which farm products will be displayed. On the same floor is a ladies' rest room which is to be comfortably furnished.

Nothing that would make this big building more convenient has been overlooked and the comfort of everyone from judge to janitor has been thought of.

In the basement a large coal room which is beyond the line of the building and is covered by a slab, capable of holding about 4 cars of coal has been provided.

Adjoining this room is an ash room equipped with a hoist for hoisting ash cans.

Two Kewanee boilers with downward draught, and smokeless, supply the steam for heating the building. In temperate weather the smaller may be used; in colder weather the larger one may be called for, and in very severe weather both may be used.

Near the boilers is a pump to lift the water resulting from condensation from the pipes.

A hot water storage tank, heated during the cold weather by steam from the boilers, has been installed. During the warm weather it will be necessary to have some other means of heating the tank and for this purpose a gas heater was provided. Owing to the closing down of the gas plant a small coal heater may be required.

The building will be well ventilated. On an elevator above the level of the boilers there is a fan—almost noiseless—which draws the air from outside over heated coils and drives it into the corridors and larger rooms. In this way the building will always be supplied with warmed, fresh air during the weather when buildings are likely to be so tightly closed that very little fresh air is admitted.

The basement proper contains store rooms, blue print room for the county engineer and a large unpartitioned room that will be found convenient for various purposes. The basement's value is enhanced by the height which is adequate for all the purposes it will be called upon to serve.

Pipes go out from the basement, underground, through which steam will be conveyed to the county jail so that it will be heated from the one plant.

All the wires entering the building come in underground so that hanging wires mar the effect of the architectural design.

The building stands out firm and square without any frills in the shape of pipes, wires, porches or additions of any kind. While some buildings suggest that they would be benefited by an operation for appendicitis, this building, thanks to its builders, is without an appendix.

On first floor of the building are offices for the county agent, county engineer and others. Also the storage vault of the auditor which is immediately below his main vault located on the next floor and connected by special stairway. All the vaults are equipped with steel shutters protecting all windows.

The corridors are wide and have floors of marble tile. The various rooms have cork covered floors and walls have a sanitary base of Tennessee marble.

A tablet of cast bronze will be placed at either side of the main entrance, one bearing the names of the county officials, and the other which the American Legion has been asked to provide will be in the nature of a memorial to those who gave their lives in the World War.

All the doors are of metal panel enclosing cork. The letters C. W. C. are on all the door plates which are cast bronze. A black enamel crow is seen on all door knobs.

Passing from one floor to another one is struck by the well-lighted stairways. Large windows face one as one ascends the stairway. The leaded glass dome is a feature of the building. This dome diffuses an abundance of soft light into the corridors.

In the old quarters the county officers work amid all the noises and distractions of the building, but in this new building they are each provided with an inner office where they may be free to do their work without interruptions.

On the third floor, on which the court room is located, one is impressed by the careful arrangement made to provide for the attendants of the court. These include an office for the county attorney, a room for the bailiffs, two jury rooms for juries sitting on cases, each jury room has the necessary toilet facilities, the court reporter's room, judge's private office, a large room for the jurors who, in the old court house after being excused were required to sit in the court room or stand around in the corridors, but in the new building have a room set apart in which they may gather to await the pleasure of the court.

Andrew Johnson is superintendent of construction and Vern White, assistant superintendent, was one of the first men on the work. Tom Leslie of Minneapolis is responsible for plastering and he does it most efficiently.

The architect and builder have been very seriously handicapped by the conditions which have hindered the arrival of materials. They are now awaiting the arrival of the marble which is required.

Crow Wing county will have reason to be proud of its building when completed.

Upper Mississippi Medical Society Has Annual Convention and Election of Officers

INTERESTING PAPERS READ

Dr. G. I. Badeaux is Re-elected Secretary—Banquet at Ransford Hotel Closes Session

The meeting of the Upper Mississippi Medical Society held on Tuesday, January 18 at the Chamber of Commerce rooms and the Ransford hotel was a decided success.

The doctors in attendance were: Frank H. Allen and F. H. Knickerbocker of Staples, Arthur J. Button of Hackensack, Holst of Little Falls, B. A. Smith and S. Shannon of Crosby, W. W. Will of Bertha, A. E. Williams of Backus, J. J. Radcliffe of Aitkin, Harry Ritchie of St. Paul, J. E. Soper of Minneapolis, and R. A. Beise, G. I. Badeaux, Walter Courtney, H. G. Collie, J. A. Evert, B. I. DeWolf, A. F. Groves, A. W. Ide, Joseph Nicholson, C. G. Nordin, J. A. Thabes, all of Brainerd.

The following officers were elected. President—Dr. W. W. Will of Bertha, Minn.

First Vice-President—Frank H. Allen of Staples.

Second Vice-President—R. A. Beise.

Third Vice-President—J. A. Thabes.

Secretary—G. I. Badeaux.

Several new members were added to the roll. The papers read were very interesting and held the attention of the doctors until 11:30 o'clock which was in itself a fine tribute to the quality of the papers and the manner of their presentation.

Dr. Harry Ritchie of St. Paul presented a new and novel type of address in form of a travelling clinic, the cases being presented in the various stages of progress by lantern slides.

This paper was discussed in detail by Drs. Ide of Brainerd, Holst of Little Falls and Will of Bertha.

Drs. DeWolf and Beise of Brainerd presented clinical cases. Dr. Soper of Minneapolis gave an outline of the workings of the United States Public Health Service, impressing upon the doctors this department which is to have their co-operation and invites them to help extend the benefits to the ex-service men.

Dr. Soper made it clear that there is much misunderstanding relative to this public health service work, and stated that it is not part of the army, but is in charge of a special department and should benefit all ex-service men who require its service as exists for this purpose.

Through no fault of the service but through misunderstanding and prejudice or lack of interest which has prevented men learning the facts the benefits which would have been given have not been claimed. The discussion brought out the fact that every ex-service man with a vocational handicap should report by letter to the supervisor of vocational

ICY STREETS CAUSE TROUBLE

Four Automobile Accidents, Some Cars Damaged But No One Badly Hurt

There were four automobile accidents in Brainerd on Wednesday due largely to the condition of the streets owing to the thaw of the afternoon.

One of these occurred at Kingwood and Broadway, a second on Oak street a third in East Brainerd on the fill, and the fourth which resulted in damage to the cars which came together at Seventh and Norwood streets.

In this case Harry E. Butler was driving a six cylinder Buick on Seventh street and was hit by a Ford coming down Norwood street. R. N. Kolls was in the car with Mr. Butler and both were considerably shaken. The Ford contained Indians to the number of 6 or 7 who were on their way to Mill Lake.

The Butler car was damaged to the extent of about $25 and the other to the amount of $29. Mr. Butler claims the support of a number of witnesses in stating that the driver of the other car was at fault.

Chiropractic for Tonsillitis

If you are suffering from an attack of tonsillitis, the best thing for you to do is to call upon your Chiropractor and have him adjust the cause. It is much better to keep these much abused little organs healthy than to deprive your body of something that an All Wise Creator knew was essential to your needs. The Chiropractor cannot make Healing Force, but he can adjust subluxated Vertebrae and let it in these diseased tonsils.

GREECE; NEW NATION OF AN ANCIENT PEOPLE.

The question of succession to the throne of King Alexander of Greece turned world interest once more to southeastern Europe. The changes Greece has undergone territorially and the part it has played in the wars and crises of its corner of the world, are discussed in the following bulletin issued by the National Geographic society:

"What is Greece?"

"In the light of the past the answer might well be tentative, for a definition of Greece's area at any time during the thousands of years of its history would have held good hardly for a quarter century; and in latter years, so swift have been the changes in the new Greece, each decade has seen the fixing of new boundaries.

"Not until modern times—except during the momentary empire of Alexander—has 'Greece' meant a nation. In the Grecian Golden Age, as well as before and since, Greece was a house divided against itself. Its detailed history would mean the history of more than 150 separate states. And yet there was at all times some feeling of Hellenic nationality even though the rivalries among the various groups stood in the way of fusion into a single nation.

"While Great Britain may be described as a land surrounded by seas, Greece may be said to be 'a sea surrounded by land.' The Hellenes have always been a sea-faring folk, and the Mediterranean sea, and more particularly the Aegean have been their own particular 'herring ponds.' The islands of the eastern Mediterranean became Greek territory in their entirety, and this was true also of the island-like Peloponnesus and some other portions of the Greek peninsula. But an equally important part of Greece—or better, of the land of the Hellenes—were the settlements made by its mariners on the shores of the mainland that hem in the Mediterranean. These settlements constituted an unbroken fringe of Hellas along the shores of Asia Minor, and scattered communities on the shores of Italy, in Sicily, even in northern Africa and what is now southern France. This was the loose 'Greece' or Hellas at its greatest—a domain of one people but of many states.

"Greece gave the world its first League of Nations, the Delian league, organized in 447 B. C. by way of mutual protection against the 'external aggression' of Persia, which had a sort of Berlin-to-Bagdad ambition of its own in those days. Athens was the only 'principal power' in this league, and was the recognized leader of the organization.

"Later came the hegemony of Athens by force, the paradoxical empire of a democracy, bereft even of the trappings of monarchy. At this period and under what may be termed the empires of Sparta and Thebes, a close approach to a Greek nation may be said to have existed; but in none of these eras were most of the territories peopled by Greeks included, and even large parts of the Greek peninsula itself were governed by other Hellenic states. For a brief period under Alexander the Great, Greece reached the status of a nation, but it was a fusion forced by a virtual outsider and contained much territory inhabited by others than Greeks; and on the death of the great military genius the Hellenes separated again into numerous governmental units.

"Greece, expanding from the city state, had comprised for a moment almost the whole civilized world; but the great dilation was followed by an equally great contraction. Greece fell under the rising power of Rome, and became a mere province in the western empire.

"The military ability and power of the Greeks died under the Roman yoke; but when the Eastern empire was formed with Constantinople as its seat, Greek culture conquered where Greek arms could not, and Byzantium became in reality a great Greek state. Once more the territory that, by construction at least, can be regarded as Greece, spread outward until it held within its boundaries much of southeastern Europe. It is on reviving the glory of this period in Grecian history that Greek ambition, when it could live at all, has dwelt."

MONGOLIA: SHE SEEKS TO THROW OFF YOKE OF CHINA.

Mongolia, fighting along its eastern border to throw off the yoke of China once more, is one of the most interesting countries in the world today and also one of the most primitive, according to a communication to the National Geographic society, from Ethan C. Le Munyon.

"The inhabitants in many ways resemble our own North American Indians," says he. "They have a written language, are blindly devoted to the Buddhist religion, and are very fanatical. The lamas, or Buddhist monks, are the curse of Mongolia, and are parasites living on the religious credulity of their lay brethren. Ex-every third man in Mongolia is a lama. "The highlands of Mongolia vary in altitude from 3,000 to 5,500 feet. There are many mountain ranges, and in very few places is the country level for any considerable distance. The word Gobi means a 'barren or desolate plain.' Vegetation is absent on the Gobi desert, with the exception of a few grasses, so that argol (or dried camel dung) is the only fuel used. It is collected and stored in large quantities for use during the winter.

"Water is scarce, a few wells along the caravan route furnishing the entire supply. During the winter and spring the camel is the only animal that can cross the desert and subsist on dried-up grasses. At this season of the year blocks of ice are carried for water supply, and at other seasons, two large tubs are carried on each camel, used for this purpose, one tub on each side of the camel.

"The Mongol is a great meat eater, living in some cases entirely on mutton. In comparing other foods, he will ask if they are as good as mutton. It is not uncommon for a Mongol to consume ten pounds of this meat at one sitting. He puts mutton fat in his tea, which is prepared with milk from the brick tea (poorest grade pressed in bricks), and of this he drinks enormous quantities; 30 cups per day is not an uncommon amount for an adult. There are no regular hours for eating; the native eats when opportunity offers. Game is not common near Urgan, but many varieties are found in the mountains, though hunting on Bogda Ol (Buddha's Mountain) is prohibited."

ANATOLIA AWAKE FROM SLEEP OF AGES.

Anatolia, which in Greek means a rising, is literally living up to its name. The leaven which during the past two or three years has been working such drastic changes in countries in Europe and Asia, recently threw this portion of Asia Minor in a ferment.

Anatolia, which lies between the Black and Mediterranean seas and touches Armenia on the east and Syria on the south, is the home of some 7,000,000 Turks. Even though Mohammedan Turks, these people have suffered almost as much at the hands of their own governing officials as have the subject Greeks and Armenians.

The original Turks in this area are descendants of tribes which have drifted in from Central Asia, but into Anatolia's crucible have poured streams from many sources—Turkians, Persians, Armenians and Greeks, warrior tribes, nomads and merchants, many of whom have lost their names and traditions. In fact, most of the earth's animate creatures have at some time passed over it. The molten products of the centuries are nomads, who often change a wandering life into one of agriculture, living in houses built of bricks of clay dried in the sun.

The principal wealth of Anatolia lies in its agriculture. Portions of the land are easily worked and fertile, the tract from the Sea of Marmora to Trebizond being particularly rich. Other parts are rocky or are interspersed with salt tracts.

Due to the paucity of a population numbering scarcely twenty-two persons to the square mile, and to the fact that the inhabitants are imbued deeply with the fatalism and suave imperturbability of Mohammedanism, which to the American mind seems about 90 per cent laziness, two-thirds of the tillable area is covered with sprigs and useless weeds.

When the natives bestir themselves and raise the common grains, grapes and olives, cotton, tobacco and poppy seeds which the land is capable of producing, there are not yet sufficient transportation facilities to take care of the harvests. The Germans saw the possibilities of these regions and were planning, when they shipped railroad ties, steam tractors and agricultural machinery into the country, practical steps toward the realization of their dream. Now travelers from the Near East tell us that "soon the locomotive, the motor truck, and the airplane will open up Anatolia in a new way, binding it to the world commercially, politically, and geographically, as the historic bridge land between East and West."

SAN MARINO IS LIVING PROOF THAT PEACE ENDURES.

Founded by a man whose parting prayer was that it never should increase its territory by violence, San Marino emerges upon the map of the new Europe, from which empires are disappearing and new nations are outlined. With Germany crippled and laid low by an exactly opposite ambition, San Marino remains as an enduring monument to her ideal.

This tiny nation, "our littlest ally," is described by Alice Rohe in a communication to the National Geographic society, as follows:

"The position of San Marino, 13 miles from Rimini, is singular. This little republic, whose greatest length is nine miles, is completely surrounded by Italy, who respects its autonomy, as have rulers of the past with a few fleeting exceptions, since the pious Dalmatian stonecutter left the mountain to his followers, 'free from every other man.'

"That this little republic, which today has 11,000 inhabitants and an area of 38 square miles, has maintained its independence, its ideal of liberty, in the midst of strife and bloodshed, of changing social conditions, for sixteen centuries, adds dignity to the unwavering belief of the trusting ones in the neverceasing protection of the saintly founder.

"In the life of the republic today the influence of the Dalmatian saint is strongly reflected. For a country to maintain the characteristics of its primitive founder is a social phenomenon of which possibly San Marino alone can boast.

"During the days of Christian persecutions, in the middle of the Fourth century, Marino and Leo, two stonecutters of Arbe, Dalmatia, crossed the Adriatic and came to Rimini. Their reason, says tradition, was to aid Christians, condemned by pagan rulers, to reconstruct the walls of that city.

"The walls of Rimini having been finished, Leo and Marino looked longingly upon the solitude of the two mountains. As the hermits of the Thebaid, who flourished at this same period, they sought peace and solitude in those impenetrable heights. Hewing a bed from the rock and cultivating a little garden, Marino found all his material wants supplied. This rough bed and site of the garden are pointed out today by reverent peasants. A few slaves followed their former overseers in order to practice, undisturbed, their Christian faith.

"Marino's desire was to found a free society, based upon liberty, justice, simplicity, charity, virtue, and, above all, of love of peace. When the good man came to die he called his followers about him and bequeathed to them his mountain, 'free from every other man.' His parting prayer was that they never seek enlargement of territory by violent means. War, though a painful necessity for those acting in self-defense, was an unpardonable crime in those who caused it. Begging his followers to remain true to the faith and to live in perfect accord, freemen all, he passed away, little dreaming that in the Twentieth century his little community would stand, a monument to his peaceful teachings and simple form of government, in the midst of a war-torn world."

MADE FAMOUS BY NOAH; WANTED U. S. TO MAKE IT FREE.

One of the states which asked the United States to be its mandatory is Nakhichevan.

If you have not heard of Nakhichevan, first consult Genesis 8:4, for the district in question lies at the foot of Mt. Ararat, and the town of Nakhichevan contains the alleged graveyard of Noah. The builder of the Ark, local tradition affirms, went down into the land that sought the wing of the United States. There he is said to have died of thirst in the parched plain after his ark had broken up on the snowy peak of the world's most famous mountain.

The Nakhichevan district, inhabited by Tartars, is bounded on the north by the Armenian district of Erivan. Along the south flows the Arax river, which is the subject of many an Armenian song and which here forms the boundary between Asiatic Russia and Persia. In the hills to the northeast is Shusha, a strong Armenian center, where the Armenians held out against a circle of foes in the summer of 1918.

When Russia's power in the Caucasus declined and the soldiers flowed back from the former Russian front in Turkey through the Nakhichevan district, the traditional hatred between the Armenians of the Erivan district and the Mohammedan Tartars broke out. This closed the carriage road to Tabriz and later closed the railway. At great risk several members of the American Committee for Armenian and Syrian Relief, with headquarters at Erivan, went to Tabriz and brought back several million roubles in a train that was so crowded with retreating Russian soldiers that one of the committee members, upholstered with hundreds of thousands of roubles, was forced to sleep on the roof of the car in a temperature near zero. Within a week the railway service was stopped by Armenian-Tartar fighting.

The uprising of the Nakhichevan Tartars was ill timed. German propagandists had placarded the district with posters exhorting these Tartars, who are related to the Turks and are of the same religion, to arise against the Armenians, whom the retreating Russians had left to their own devices. This they did. But the Armenians had spent the winter in raising an army to take over the former Russian front and about 25,000 of these volunteers were assembled in Erivan.

When the writer crossed the Igdir plain, where Armenians are starving today, these much persecuted people were having their linnings and the smoke from a score of burning Tartar villages could be seen. Tartars with arms were allowed to live if they surrendered their guns, and women and children were not touched, but their villages were looted and burned by the Armenians. This was in March, 1919. All the Tartars retreated to the Nakhichevan district where they formed a majority of the population. There they have remained. Hatred between them and the Armenians is strong.

The whole problem is made difficult by the diversity of the population. In the mountain villages the Kurds are most numerous. A strong hand will be necessary to control these several tribes. The Kurds have been forced to be butchers by the Turks, who gave them guns as their only tools, and who kept agriculture and education from them. Their condition was as bad for a time as that of the Armenians, and along the Turko-Russian boundary scores of Kurds were to be seen with only one garment and barefoot at an altitude of seven thousand feet in March.

SAYS FEW READ THE BIBLE

Writer Criticises the Present Generation for Its Lack of Knowledge of the Scriptures.

The bookseller's story of the woman who demanded to know where in the Bible she could find the story of Dagon and Pythias is called to mind by the recently reported attempt of a professor at the university to measure the Biblical knowledge of his class in English literature. The test resulted in a rather naive display of ignorance concerning a book which has been called "the fountain head of English literature," and which, with Shakespeare, invariably heads the list of "best" books and gathers more dust than any other.

There are those who, having made acquaintance with the Bible in their own youth, and realizing its poetry, history and style, agree with Prof. Dallas Lore Sharp that we are a "Bible-starved nation." What parent reads the Bible to or with the children these days? They get fairy stories or animal fables. Even the Sunday-school lessons are given from a leaflet. The Bible has been storied and expurgated in the so-called interests of children, and has shared the usual fate of such well-meant but unnecessary endeavors. It is not without occasion that educators are discussing the need and the methods of increasing interest in the book.

Whether we regard the Bible as a sacred book, as a saga of the Hebrews, or as a collection of stories, legends and historical fact of ancient origin, it is so thoroughly a part of our literature, which is so abundant in allusions and references to its content, that not to know their source and application is to argue one's self unread. Youth ought to be as aware of Moses the lawgiver as of Hamlet or King Lear.—Detroit Free Press.

STRANGE POISONING!

The most eminent physicians recognize that uric acid stored up in the system is the cause of rheumatism, that this uric acid poison is present in the joints, muscles, or nerves. By experimenting and analysis at the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute in Buffalo, N. Y., Dr. Pierce discovered a combination of native remedies that he called "An-uric"—which drives out the uric acid from the system, and in this way the pain, swelling and inflammation subside. If you are a sufferer from rheumatism, backache, pains here or there, you should obtain "Anuric" at the drug store; or send Dr. Pierce 10c for trial package. "Anuric" is many times more potent than lithia.

We have made arrangements with the Murray Illustrated Advertising Company of New York, for the furnishing of cuts for advertising purposes absolutely free to our patrons. This service is the best in America and has as clients some of the largest newspapers published.

Never before has it been possible for a paper to furnish this service without a considerable added outlay on the part of the advertiser, and even now it is only offered to the paper recognized by advertisers and readers as the leader in its section.

The Dispatch buys the cuts; the advertiser pays for the space in the paper at the same rate as for other advertising. Many of our patrons have already taken advantage of this offer and others are invited to do so.

We will be glad to explain the matter more fully
